First of all let me say a huge "Thank You" to all the poets and supporters who contributed to the success of our Bush Poetry Festival at Toodyay. That everyone was willing to do whatever was asked of them made our job so much easier. The crowd was up, the standard of poetry was up, and the bus trip to Jennacubbine was a popular addition to the program.

Congratulations to Christine on regaining the title of WA State Bush Poetry Champion, and to Dave Smith for his win in the Yarnspinning. See separate report on Toodyay.

Hosting the Australian Championships next year will require increased planning. Meg and I have spent time with previous organisers planning for this. We have had many suggestions put forward already, and welcome further ideas that might help. Please put them in an email so we have a record (little bits of paper have a habit of getting lost at my place). If you are thinking of bringing your caravan be sure to book in early as van sites are limited.

Meg and I have resumed our travels after a hectic visit back to WA. It was a very busy time with family, farm and garden all requiring our time and attention in addition to poetry at Toodyay and Nambung. We are back in Queensland and have just enjoyed a relaxing time on the Country Music Cruise.

Meg and I wish everyone a safe and Happy Christmas and will catch up again when we are back in WA just in time for Boyup Brook.

Bill Gordon President

We all wish you and Meg a great festive season and happy travels. ED.

BUSH POETS RETURN TO TOODYAY

Members of the WA Bush Poets & Yarnspinners gathered at Toodyay on the 4th to 6th November for their fourth annual Act, Belong, Commit, Toodyay Bush Poetry Festival & State Championships. It proved to be an enjoyable event for all concerned, with many visitors coming from Perth and Mandurah for the weekend. The Memorial Hall is an ideal venue, with the décor and history making a magnificent setting for Bush Poetry.

Popular winner of the competition was Christine Boulton from Perth, with Roger Cracknell runner up and John Hayes third. This is the second occasion Christine has been successful having won in 2014. It is not long ago that Roger was competing in the novice section, and it is encouraging to see him progress so quickly with his performances. John is a proven poet of long standing. He was right behind the winners in a very close contest.

Winner of the Yarnspinning was Dave Smith from Collie. Everyone was pleased to see Dave back to the fore after some health issues. He has a knack of weaving a good yarn, having been the top yarn spinner at Boyup Brook in 2011.

The festival was off to a great start with a workshop presented by one of the judges, Rob Christmas. Rob gave a very detailed presentation on different rhyming patterns and how rhyme and metre create feeling and emotion in a poem. When she gave examples considerable discussion followed, with participants were challenged to write their own lines. Many who attended told me that it was the best workshop they had attended.

Social activity began on Friday night when we packed a school bus for a magnificent evening meal and some well received poetry at the Jennacubbine Tavern. Visitors came from as far as Dowerin for this evening. Competition poetry and Yarnspinning kept the large audience entertained throughout the day. The Roadwise challenge was well supported with fourteen poets presenting a poem on the topic "Distracted Drivers are Dangerous". Peg Vickers won this, and she also won the Poet's Brawl which was held on Sunday afternoon.

On Saturday night people gathered in the Memorial Hall for dancing and singing brought to us by two of the new poets, Steve Roberts and Michael "Oxo" Barclay and their partners. A very enjoyable and relaxed evening was enjoyed by all.

Toodyay Lions Club did a great job catering for the Bush Poets Breakfast on Sunday morning before the competition resumed for the day. The weekend concluded with presentations to the winners. Toodyay citizen of the year, Peter Robinson, handed out the novice and classic reader awards. Margaret O'Sullivan, manager of Bendigo Bank, Toodyay and Miska Madacsi representing Toodyay Festivals Inc. presented the remainder of the certificates and the trophies.

Sponsors are essential to make an event such as this happen. I would like to extend a huge Thank you to our sponsors, Healthway, Toodyay Shire, Road Safety Council of WA, Bendigo Bank, CBH, Makit Hardware, and Toodyay Caravan Park.

HAPPY★NEW★YEAR

Dear Folks,
 What a wonderful time we all had at Today. We are a great team and so many people deserve thanks for the roles they fulfilled. I've put in lots of photos (thank you Rodger), they'll look better via email but it's still nice to put faces to names. This month memberships are due for 2017, you can pay at the December or January muster if that makes life easier. Also the new roster for 2017 is attached. Please keep it somewhere safe as (hopefully) there won't be the need for many changes. Thank you all for being so willing to be solicited. Wishing you all a safe and Merry Christmas and a sensational New Year. Lots of love
 Christine

THE CHRISTMAS GIFT

That Christmas seemed a little grim, the outlook pretty bleak, the opal gods had turned their backs - had done so all that week.

A little potch and colour would sure ease their fiscal pain, and help to tide them over until good times came again.

Tomorrow would be Christmas and their cupboard was near bare,
a rusty can of Heinz baked beans was all that's left in there.
The two young mates though down on luck still worked a solid day,
and set a final blasting once they'd cleared the dirt away.

Then headed into town to spend the last few bob they had,
they'd only get necessities as things were now quite bad.
There'd be no fancy food or drinks to offer Christmas cheer;
no midday roast and pudding, or the usual toast with beer.

Next morning saw them readying to catch up with a mate, who was as broke as they were, but would share their meager plate.
And though the meal was plain; as far as Christmas feasting goes,
the day was still enjoyable despite impending woes.

Some card games helped to pass the hours and added to the fun,
the mate then told their fortunes, dealing cards out one by one.
Foretelling of a change of luck soon due to head their way,
and they should go and check their mine for opal there that day.

Although good-natured laughter greeted comments that he made,
they headed out to have a look, at least there'd be some shade.
The day was hot and stifling as they reached their Flat Hill mine, their York hoist stood there proudly, somewhat like a metal shrine.

They quickly clambered down the shaft to coolness down below, and then switched on their makeshift lights, that gave a golden glow.
Long drives stretched out into the gloom where shadows danced about,
and eighty feet down underground shuts outside noises out.

They made for where the shot had been and brought along a light,
and stood there in their disbelief at such a wondrous sight.
Large seams of brilliant opal were now showing in the face, their eyes were bright and shiny, as they stared into that space.

Here opals flashing red with greens and sparkling gold and blue, and all the colours known to man were laid out there on view.
This Christmas had bestowed a gift of beauty bright and rare, just at a time when all seemed lost - the opal gods played fair.

Distracted Drivers by Frank Heffernan August 2016

Distracted drivers are dangerous; statistics all prove that it's true;
Keep your eyes on the road while you're driving, so prangs won't happen to you.
Distracted drivers are dangerous; you don't want to be one of those.
Stop after two hours of travel and avoid the temptation to doze.

A driver should always be wary in keeping the car in control;
Too often a driver gets careless and fails to make safety the goal.
It's illegal to text while you're driving, and turn off your mobile phone;
They are just another distraction that makes you more accident prone.

It helps if you know where you're going, and when to turn left or go right;
So plan out the route you are taking, and fasten all seatbelts up tight.
Drinking and drugs are a no-no, so more shame on the fools who won't learn.
There are so many dangers while driving, and speeding's a major concern.

Sleep on the job for a moment and disaster can strike you real quick.
But regrets may linger a lifetime and haunt you and make you feel sick.
Distracted drivers are dangerous; a crash is a nightmare from hell;
Just think of the cost of the Ambo's, the tow trucks and coffins as well!

The Nature of Farming by Brett Inglis

The feel of winter continues to force itself upon the land, Farmers urge to be free from what seems to be Gods unfair hand,
Frost is beginning to bite,
Gloom upon the farmers who have to hold on tight.

The wheat crop in the fields withering with every cold snap of late,
Natures cruel way we cannot abate.
Even science cannot defy,
a cruel twist which still does mystify.

Stand with the farmers is all we can do, knowing that that they are tough and consist of few.
Noble producers of the food for which we depend,
where would we be without these women and men?

The seasons begin with a hope that springs eternal, fingers crossed that nature does not play its cruel hand infernal!

We see fortune prevailing for some, people to remain on the land whilst others to the towns they become.

Economic forces uses its invisible hand to reek, to be evicted off the land allowing other opportunities to seek.

But think of the few who still remain in the outback, to meet new trials and tribulations as they cannot give themselves the sack!

By nature the country in the Wheatbelt can be tough, recognise that life upon the farmers can still be rough!
But hopes arise of a future less dim,
as a good canola crop brings a profit though slim!

And those sheep and cattle their young may survive,
for in the spring they surely will thrive!
Farming does require diversity, in these times of adversity!

Science will uphold the fight against Jack Frost,
Ensure a future where production is not lost.
Agronomics attempts to achieve success,
where farmers defy nature to ensure whose best.

To use our limited resources in a fashion most wise, not to stretch and abuse as they only get the people off-side!
Work with the townsfolk about life on the farm, ensure to the land there is little harm!

Farming into the future I am seeing,
a long way to go in our destiny as human beings.
To work with nature in maintaining a balance that is rightful,
and prevent a future for our ascendants which may become quite rightful.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL OUR MEMBERS AND THEIR FAMILIES

Year-Round Joy

Christmas is full of shiny things
That sparkle, gleam and glow;
These holiday pleasures dazzle us,
And yet, deep down, we know...

That Christmas has its special gifts,
But our year-round joy depends
On the cherished people in our lives,
Our family and our friends.

By Joanna Fuchs

Recycling By Frank Heffernan

October 2016

In a world full of hustle and bustle and haste,
We are building up mountains of rubbish and waste.
Recycling our junk heaps; we'll all have to do it,
Let's revert it, convert it, reuse, or renew it.

We're becoming addicted to throwing stuff out;
But at last we are trying to turn that about.
'Cos' polluting our planet may come at great cost,
When our water and soil, are degraded and lost.

By sorting out plastic waste, cardboard and tin,
And separating each to a spare wheelie bin.
It's such a humble beginning, but you get the idea,
That changing our thinking takes more than a year.

But recycling is part of God's great Masterplan.
Just consider His people, at the end of life's span,
It's all ashes to ashes, and it's dust to dust.
He recycles the wicked, as well as the just!

G'day all,

I am attaching for information and comment a draft of the by-laws I am proposing for the setting up of branches.

The resolution will have to go to a General Meeting in due course.

Happy to discuss.

Cheers,

stinger Peter Nettleton

WABPYA By-laws- Draft Resolution

November Muster 11th November, Write Ups – Sue Hill and Nancy Coe

Lorraine Broun MC started proceedings at 7.10 pm

Roger Kohn read out a Thankyou Card from Bill and Meg Gordon, thanking everyone for their help over the Toodyay weekend.

Lorraine congratulated all the winners at Toodyay.

Nancy Coe – recited “The Shearing Game” by Snow Pick

A poem about the shearing game, gun shearers competing against each other and one of them being Snow Pick.

Rob Gunn – recited a Remembrance Day poem – “The Simple Poppy” by Paul Hunter

A poem depicting the significance of how a poppy is a memory of a loved one lost during the war and a reminder to all of the courage and honour of all the heroes who faced all the challenges for us all.

“Never Forget” by Keith Lethbridge.

How the men and women of Australia fought and died to save our land for all of us.

Brian Langley – recited his poem “Melbourne Cup”

How on the first Tuesday of November every year all across Australia many people take a day off work to attend the Melbourne Cup whether it be in a Country Pub or Club or at the race track to enjoy the special day and hopefully have a win.

“The Forest” a poem regarding the felling of our native Forest’s, how the native orchards are dying our creeks becoming salty and the birds disappearing. Doesn’t anybody care that our forests are dwindling?

Dot Langley – One of the first to recite a poem on the theme for the night “Recycling”

“Recycling” by Frank Hefferman

Time to change our thinking and convert, reuse, renew instead of throwing things out.

Christine Boulton – Recycling poem “Waste not Want not”

A poem suggesting we go back to when we used to reuse old clothing to make other items, fixing and mending things instead of replacing, no plastic bags, take our own bags with us to the shops.

Jem Shorland – Recycling “Re Cycling”

A yarn about recycling families, marriage and how some people should not be allowed to marry.

Brian Langley – Recycling poem “Getting Fit”

Poem about getting fit by riding a bicycle so to improve his health, years ago he used to ride a bike so now he is re-cycling.

Lorraine Broun – “A Reasonable Request”

A witty poem of a patient confirming her appointment at the hospital and getting confused with a lobotomy and a colonoscopy.

Another poem - A saga of a friend shifting from Narrogin to Tasmania with overweight luggage, a locked case and with the keys thrown away.

Carolyn Sambridge – presented her poem about “Diabetes”

How one doesn’t like what the dieticians are saying about the diet one must follow because of diabetes.

Ode To a Bogan – describing how one lives with all the Bogan like matter around us.

Roger Cracknell – “A Rodents Tale”

A humorous tale of their travels across the Nullarbor Plain and whilst camped for the night they were invaded by a plague of mice and how they tried to rid them from their Caravan.

Tony Hill – “Census” by Janine Haig

When filling out a Census form the question arises “Occupation”, as she was always being asked to “just come here” and hold this or help with something else she decided to put her occupation down as “just come here”.

Jack Matthews. “Please wear a poppy”

Recited a poem about an elderly lady describing to a young boy why we wear a poppy for “Remembrance Day”

John Hayes – his poem “Anzac Cottage”

The cottage that was built for Private John Porter as he was the 1st wounded ANZAC to return home. The brick and tile home was built in a day with love and respect by all the workman.

After supper

Anne Hayes our Classic Reader presented

“The Song of the Shingle Splitters” by Henry Kendall.

Christine Boulton – Her favourite trilogy for Remembrance Day . “Our Flag ” by Banjo Paterson, “Scots of the Riverina” Henry Lawson and “We Shall Not Sleep” by John McCrae.

Nancy Coe – “ The House that Beat them All” by Snow Pick

A poem about shared stories during his working days with work mates. Among others the one about 5 little houses up Leonora way still standing there like sentries, little out houses. Another over a mine shaft the depth being questionable. How he entertained them for nothing which he realised was a terrible mistake.

Brian Langley – “Distracted Drivers are Dangerous”

Brian’s poem about how easy it is to be distracted while driving even looking at signs along the roadside.

Animals and Me –

How Brian seems to attract all types of animals to him but they all seem to cause him some kind of grief. So now he just keeps composting worms.

Jack Mathews – “The Willibuck Christmas Party” by Bill Kearns.

A very humorous poem about the residents of the local Nursing Home intent of having a great Xmas party despite the management cutting their food supply. They hoarded food over the weeks and also picked neighbours herbs for their tea which was marihuana, consequently after drinking the popular herbal tea they tended to get rather carried away and caused a few problems with the Police.

Robert Gunn “ The Toss of the Coins” by Terry Piggott

A poem about “two up” and how good it is when you are winning but it is easy to lose the lot.

Jem Shorland –

A tale about a man, having a horrible day of everything going wrong so he is having a drink in the bar to drown his sorrows, he had also put some tablets in his beer to end all his misery, when a bikie comes in and drinks his beer?

John Hayes – “The Whole Hog”

A yarn about working on the farm and always seem to be eating Farmyard tucker, Slabs of Pork, Pickled Pork, Pigs trotters, spare ribs.

Roger Cracknell – “The Song of Old Joe Swallow”

Poem of hardship in the days of long ago, running a bullock team and cattle droving.

Dot Langley – “Cobbers of Mine” The Axeman by Alf Wallace.

A poem that tell of mates/cobbers who were called away to fight for their country, how soldiers weathered the test, as they were tuff, may Australia be proud bikie comes in and drinks his beer?

John Hayes – “The Whole Hog”

A yarn about working on the farm and always seem to be eating Farmyard tucker, Slabs of Pork, Pickled Pork, Pigs trotters, spare ribs.
